In addition to the highly detailed parts and illustrated, multilingual building instructions, a large, elaborately printed decal is included, which perfectly reproduces the impressive "Goodbye Huey" design elements. There is also a pilot figure that makes the flying experience even more realistic. Get this limited edition now and enrich your model collection with an extraordinary piece of aviation history! Our Bell® UH-1D model kit is ideal for modelling enthusiasts looking for a special challenge. Both beginners with basic knowledge and experienced modellers will be equally impressed by this kit. You can use the model for exhibitions, present it as an impressive collector's item or even incorporate it into your sophisticated flight scenario. What makes this kit so special is not only the limited edition, but also the highly detailed replica of the original. The innovative construction technique enables the parts to be joined together precisely, giving you a realistic model that is in no way inferior to the original. Thanks to the decals included, you can create the "Goodbye Huey" design effortlessly and authentically. This kit is an absolute must-have for every aviation enthusiast and collector of military aircraft. Background information The Bell® UH-1D, also known as the "carpet beater", is one of the Bundeswehr's legendary helicopters and leaves behind an impressive era in German military history. When it is decommissioned in 2021, the 73+08 registration will bid farewell to the German skies in an attractive "Goodbye Huey" design. This model kit allows you to relive an important part of aviation history yourself and add it to your collection as a fascinating model.
