Product Description

"It was the time of Yule, which men call Christmas, though they know in their inmost hearts that it is older than Bethlehem and Babylon, older than Memphis and all mankind. It was the time of Yule, and I had come at last to the old city by the sea, where my people had dwelt and celebrated feasts in former times, when feasts were forbidden; where they had also commanded their sons to hold a feast once in every century, that the memory and the earliest mysteries might not be forgotten."- H.
