Product Description

Which paintings are real, which are fake? In this cooperative art card game for three to seven players, there are two teams: painters and museum directors. The first two playing cards are turned face up as theme cards. Then the painters add some matching picture cards from their hand face down. Four more cards of the art forger Belratti are secretly added from the deck. Now they turn the cards face up and guess which cards the painters have laid down. Will the team of museum directors manage to unmask every Belratti forgery? In this family game, 192 picture cards with different possible combinations make it not at all easy to get on the trail of the art forger. Caution! Not suitable for children under 36 months.
