Product Description

Now one of the most fascinating cultures of South America is settled, the Inca. The basic Catanian elements of settling, trading and building are thematically expanded. Fish, coca and feathers enrich the barter trade. In addition, the rise and fall of different cultures is an essential game principle, so that new game situations constantly arise and require adjustments to tactics. For example, for the first time, raw material sources of the other players can be taken over, symbolising the rise and fall of different cultures in the Andean region. Detailed figures and colourful illustrations transport the players to the time of the Incas. A stand-alone CATAN adventure for 3 - 4 players aged 12 and up.
