Product Description

In Pan's Island, players travel to Neverland and take on the roles of Peter Pan, Tinker Bell, Wendy, Lily, John and Michael. Together they have to find and rescue the Lost Children that Captain Hook has kidnapped. To do this, they try to understand the visions they receive. But the villainous Captain Hook does everything he can to thwart these plans and lies in wait for the brave adventurers around every corner. Will they manage to find a total of four Lost Children before the dreaded pirate tracks the group down for the fifth time?

Although all players in Pan's Island form a team and work towards a common goal, they do not have the same information: Each person knows the location of a child, but cannot reveal it. Instead, the person on the right receives coded clues that they must use to find the child themselves. In each round, the players choose vision cards (distance or direction vision cards) and at the same time estimate the danger from Captain Hook that could result from the clues on the vision cards. Finally, everyone takes a turn to move around the game board, set up camp and/or search for the Lost Children. All of this takes place directly on the foiled game board with the help of movement and exploration templates. The players mark their movement with wipe-off pens and their position with their own figure. An adventure mode and unique abilities of the heroes provide additional challenges.
