Product Description

Hinterher ist man immer schlauer is a great, engaging and exciting question game in which know-it-alls can be outplayed and their own knowledge gaps can be covered up. Anyone can win - even if the others know more. In Hinterher ist man immer schlauer, five questions are answered one after the other. After a player has answered the questions, the other players are told the number of correct answers, but not which answers were correct. The same questions are then asked of the next player and so on, and when it's your turn, you can simply copy the answers of the others or give your own answers. But be careful! Someone who answers quickly and confidently does not necessarily know the correct answer. And if you pretend to have to guess something, you may be one hundred per cent sure and just bluffing! If you are clever, determined and good at analysing your fellow players, you can win - even if you can only answer one question correctly. You're always smarter afterwards consists of 550 entertaining, interesting and general knowledge questions. A perfect souvenir and guaranteed fun for parties, game nights or family celebrations! Important information Caution! Not suitable for children under 36 months.
