Product Description

In this solo adventure set in the 1920s, you take on the role of Dr. E. Woods, a teacher of archaeology at Miskatonic University, or a self-created investigator who travels to the lakeside town of Esbury. Almost all the events there are connected to Professor William Harris. What is the connection between the strange green mist that surrounds the town and Professor Harris' research? Who are the men in dark suits arriving in the town on the same ferry? Why is a Buddhist monk visiting the town, which otherwise tends to provide diversion for the upper classes of New England?

You have the choice between the given possibilities. This not only decides what happens to your Investigator, but also the fate of the whole town! With a pencil, role-playing dice and the Basic Rulebook or Investigator Rulebook, you can brave the fog-shrouded streets of Esbury. Are you ready for the challenge?

Can only be used with the CTHULHU role-playing game.

Not suitable for children under 36 months.
