Product Description

Even after centuries, much about waking eyes in trees is puzzling to the Dahan. Is it a spirit of the trees themselves, or a spirit that uses the trees as a dwelling place? Is it a single spirit, or many, or some kind of collective spirit? Despite this uncertainty, most Dahan trust it: it warns of danger, helps those who get lost or injured in the forest, and only turns against aggressors and arrogant beings. In the days of First Reckoning, his soft whispers instilled fear, but for those living now, he is a reliable part of the island. Watching Eyes in Trees is an additional spirit for Spirit Island with low complexity. He is good at defending areas and steadily creating fear. His ability to gather Dahan into areas he defends helps to steadily weaken the invaders.
