Product Description

A game about things you should actually know about. Is starboard right or left? What do the Japanese call their country and how many characters does Twitter have? Das sollte man doch wissen! is an exciting and entertaining knowledge game with over 400 questions about things you should actually know. In contrast to conventional question games, we have turned the concept on its head. Instead of plus points for correct answers, there are minus points for wrong answers. The number of minus points depends on how easy the question is. If you give the wrong answer to a very easy question, you are quickly penalised with lots of nasty minus points. Simply brilliant! Be prepared to be unsure about even the simplest questions if Google or Wikipedia are not within reach! A crazy and entertaining game with many an embarrassing answer, laughs and lots of thrills - one thing is for sure? You will hear yourself say: Ah, you should know that! Perfect for parties, cosy get-togethers with friends or your loved ones. Important information! Warning! Not suitable for children under 36 months.
