Product Description

The iconic Fiat 500 is the car that brought motorisation to Italy. The sports version of the popular 500 was developed by Italian tuner and sports car manufacturer Carlo Abarth and produced between 1958 and 1971. This small car enjoyed great popularity due to its compact size, low weight and unmistakable appearance. The Fiat 500 was equipped with an improved 595 cc engine. It also featured a sports suspension, an improved braking system and unique design details. This model became an icon of Italian style and achieved success both on the racetrack and as a city car with a unique character. The eye-catching model made of clamping bricks was designed on a large scale of 1:12, which enables enormous attention to detail. 1,223 elements guarantee many hours of building time and culminate in a great looking collector's set. The Executive Edition version features a yellow body colour and a black display base, which includes elements in the colours of the Italian flag and a nameplate. The model's functionalities include rotating and swivelling wheels, a functional steering wheel, access to the engine compartment, opening doors and a detailed interior.
