Product Description

Deadly Dinner - Bella Italia In Sicily in 1984, the Di Salvo mafia family is at the height of its power. Its head, Francesco Di Salvo, has invited friends and family to a party on his estate. Rumour has it that he wants to appoint someone to succeed him and several people want to influence this decision in their favour. But then Francesco is found dead in his private rooms. Has someone settled an old score with the powerful godfather of Sicily or was Francesco silenced before he could announce his decision? The host invites the guests to a dinner where they take on the roles of murder suspects. One of them has committed the murder, but they all have secrets they would rather keep to themselves. Over the course of three rounds, they try to find out the secrets of the other players without making themselves a suspect. The common goal is to solve the murder case - or get away with the bloody deed. In Deadly Dinner - Bella Italia, one person can also take on the role of a detective who is not a suspect. A game of Deadly Dinner consists of three rounds in which everyone receives new information about the course of the crime. In each round, the players also receive secret objects that can be found in envelopes in the packaging. The players must discuss their information and clues in the group in order to identify the perpetrator at the end. In order to prepare, players should receive the starting information for their character a few days before playing. Important notes Caution! Not suitable for children under 36 months.
