Product Description

What would a magician be without his staff? However, in addition to the best-known traditional artefact of guild mages, there are other magical tools that can accompany adventurous wizards on their journeys and be of great use. The banishing sword makes it easier to exorcise and combat entities such as spirits and demons, so it is particularly useful in the arsenal of summoners and anti-mages. The guild magic orb, on the other hand, can be used as an orbitarium to view the aventurian night sky, but also as a burning and magnifying glass and as an invaluable aid for clairvoyance magic. In addition to these three more well-known traditional artefacts, guild mages also have a lesser traditional artefact: the magic bowl, which facilitates the creation of alchemical products. This game aid presents these artefacts and their special skills in detail.
