Product Description

The monster outside my window In Misty, players receive cards, choose one of them and pass the rest on to their neighbour. In this way, everyone builds a window of 12 cards full of figures that are just waiting to come to life: The balloons rise up, the cars roll away, the leaves fall. And there's a monster lurking nearby that wants to eat your flower. So pay close attention to how you place your cards: in the end, you only score points for cards that are still in the window field! Misty is a simple drafting and programming game. To win, players must play tactically and with foresight and always keep an eye on their opponents' windows. Each player places a window consisting of 12 cards. To build their window, each player will choose a card from their hand and pass the remaining cards to their neighbour. The players will have to make decisions: should they take this card or rather make sure that their neighbour does not get that card? Once all the cards have been played, some of them will move and cover others. These cards are eliminated. To win, players must plan ahead and organise their window as optimally as possible to score as many points as possible.
