Product Description

Master's survival pack V - Floor plans for space stations by Georg Joergens If you want to get off the ground and into space, you've come to the right place: the MSP space station. Georg Joergens has skilfully designed many different parts of a space station, from the hangar to the living quarters and command centre to the escape pod. The special feature: all the parts fit together so that everyone can create their own station - or several different ones - as if from a construction kit. Whether as a space or planetary station, underground or above ground. There are also ten adventure suggestions.
