Product Description

Murder. For their "clients", this is usually a one-off. For Dorn and Pitt, however, two of Herathis' most experienced assassins, it's their daily bread. Their routine is severely disrupted when a new wind blows through the Guild of the Long Knives. Why has the number of murders risen so sharply and what role do the famous fairy market and the magistrate election play in this? The two Shadow Blades have to make a choice that they thought had long been decided: Gold or morality? A fantastic novel from Lorakis, the world of the role-playing game Splittermond, which has won three German role-playing game awards.
