Product Description

Description In Alexander Pfister's latest work, everything revolves around a group of pioneers who have settled in Boonlake, an abandoned region around the lake of the same name. As part of the community, you work for the good of the group and explore the landscape, build houses and settlements, raise livestock and develop the infrastructure. Thanks to a novel action mechanism, each game develops differently. Every action should be carefully considered, as the other players also benefit from the action you choose. The action also determines how far you can move your ship. The further and faster, the better. Important information Caution! Not suitable for children under 36 months.
