Product Description

A village spreads out between gently rolling hills to the south of a mill pond. It is obviously inhabited mainly by halflings: apart from one larger building, all the houses are built for creatures only half the size of humans. You will also discover the typical, finely decorated entrances to the underground dwellings in some of the hillsides. It is a marvellous sight - if it weren't for two oddities. Firstly, the village lacks any kind of fortification. It lies there free and unprotected, without walls or palisades, like a dream from a more peaceful part of the world. And something else is missing: a babble of voices, songs and laughter. Isn't it said that halflings are incorrigibly cheerful? There's no sign of that. They look plump and healthy, but the villagers go about their daily work with pursed lips and downcast eyes. This volume contains eight adventure locations for the role-playing game The Forbidden Lands. Your adventurers can visit a village where no one speaks, discover two hostile fortresses, go in search of the Fountain of Youth or get to know a mysterious cult. They can also follow in the footsteps of a heroine, descend into ancient dwarven mines, visit a magical refuge and explore an orcish fort. The volume contains: The Silent Village by Michael Masberg, Hydraberg & Griffinstone by Dominic Hladek, Heckenheim & The Fountain of Youth of Yefela by Lars Reißig, Savistia by Mháire Stritter, The Forge of the Ancestors by Stefan Küppers, The Gorge of the Dragon by Stefan Unteregger, Kalliana's Valley by Tilman Hakenberg, Frosthills by Felix Hensel. Illustrations by Vincent Modler & Don Kringel.
