Product Description

Experience the harmonious interplay of meditation and strategic building with Ananda! In this board game for 2-4 players aged 10 and up, you build temples and let your monks meditate in them. Round after round, you place building blocks from your supply on the game board and create coloured, connected areas that earn you valuable karma points. This creates an impressive structure before your eyes, constantly opening up new tactical and strategic building options. Keep an eye on your opponents' plans, as they can benefit from your buildings and get in your way! Only those who use their resources skilfully and keep an eye on the competition will be able to collect the most karma points in the end. Once all the tiles have been built, the player who has collected the most karma points with their meditation cards wins. Ananda, developed by Dirk Barsuhn, combines simple, relaxed gameplay with in-depth strategic decisions. The soft colours by Matthias Holländer create an atmospheric ambience that rounds off the gaming experience. Important information: Caution!
