Product Description

WaldMeister by Andreas Kuhnekath-Häbler Tactical moves in the forest! To ensure that trees take root well, they are repeatedly replanted in the nursery. WaldMeister has plugs in different colours and heights for this purpose. Each turn brings more trees into play. Both players compete for the largest groups. One player collects the same heights, the other the same colours. The larger a plantation, the better for the respective player. Only the largest groups score points. A turn is played as follows: The active player chooses one of the plugs already placed on the board, moves it in a straight line across any number of free spaces and places one of their own plugs of their choice from their supply in the now free starting space. The board becomes increasingly crowded and confusing. Who can keep track of all the trees and become the master of the forest? Caution! Not suitable for children under the age of three. Small parts can be swallowed. For 2 players aged 8 and over. Material: - Game board, 32 x 20 cm, solid beech, oiled - 54 game pieces, each with 6 plugs in 3 colours and 3 heights - Cotton bag
