Product Description

Description C-Cross By Ludovic Gimet A special kind of connecting game. The aim is to connect two opposite sides of the board with your own tiles. If a player conquers a square with three of their pieces, they cover it with their tile and take their own pieces back into the supply. This rule is well known - but: If there are also opposing pieces in this square, they must be placed in the positions of your own pieces and your own pieces are removed. This exchange of pieces when a square is conquered makes C-Cross a very interesting game. The game board consists of 16 squares, which resemble the shape of a large "C". This is how the title of the game came about. These 16 squares are milled into the board as indentations. As a result, the tile slides into the square as if by magic when conquering a square and no neighbouring tiles or playing pieces slip out of place. Caution! Not suitable for children under the age of three. Small parts can be swallowed. For 2 players aged 10 and over. Duration 20 - 30 minutes. A modern wooden relief as a game board, Oiled beech, 32 x 20 cm. 12 wooden game pieces and 8 wooden tiles in 2 colours each.
