Product Description

Camino The game for sighted and blind people by Frank Stark. Colourful, easy-to-touch game pieces that are inserted into the board and cannot slip. A large wooden cube with extra-deep holes and a game board that sighted people can also enjoy. Frank Stark has invented a family game that is great fun to play. If the finish line, which you thought was certain, is cancelled out by a "stopper" rolled on the dice, or if your playing partner moves their own piece back again - then there is plenty of anger and gloating. Regardless of whether the player can see or not. Anyone who knows Frank Stark knows that he rarely leaves it at one game on one board. So there is also a bonus game and two other variants to choose from....and why shouldn't Camino simply be played blindfolded by sighted people? Caution! Not suitable for children under the age of three. Small parts can be swallowed. Features:- for 2-4 players aged 6 and over- 30 x 30 cm game board made from solid oiled beech- Solid wood game pieces and dice
