Product Description

Kipp4 by Thomas Weber. Who can get the hang of it? A game board with slanted indentations, a bar, a few marbles and a good idea! That's what Thomas Weber had with his new game. The small game board stands at an angle on the ledge and is tilted in a different direction after each turn. This changes the positions of the marbles and creates a new game situation every time. The winner is the player who can form a row of 4 with their own marbles. Spatial imagination is required to be able to predict what will happen to your own and your opponent's marbles with each turn. Caution! Not suitable for children under the age of three. Small parts can be swallowed. - For 2 players aged 8 and over - Duration: 15 - 20 minutes - Game board: oiled beech, 13 x 13 cm - A dark wooden bar and marbles in 3 colours
