Product Description

Stein im Brett (wooden disc game pieces) Stein im Brett For people who like to put a stone in the way of others ...by Steffen Brückner There are many family games, games for 6 people are not so common anymore - and there are very few games with short, simple rules that are good for two people as well as 6. Stein im Brett is one such game. The large cotton bag contains game pieces in 6 colours. If there are only two players, each player has 3 colours. With three players, there are 2 colours each and with 4 - 6 players, only one colour is assigned to each player and scored. This means that all the pieces remain in the game - which is important, as all the pieces are needed to fill the board exactly 3 times. Scoring takes place after each round. Victory points are only awarded for tiles without a neighbouring tile of the same colour. As the tiles are taken blindly from the bag, there are bound to be lively discussions about where to place a particular tile. The result is an entertaining game for families and friends in which children and adults have an equal chance. Caution! Not suitable for children under three years of age. Small parts can be swallowed. for 2-6 players aged 6 and over- Game board made of solid oiled beech, 25 x 25 cm- Game pieces are discs made of solid wood (wooden discs), lacquered in 6 colours Also available in a version with wooden lenses.
