Product Description

Description Tinta's by Dieter Stein Seven are unbeatable! The wooden tiles on the board with its many hexagonal squares are as colourful as a colour palette. There is a playing piece, a meeple, on one square. This playing piece moves across the board, either to the neighbouring square or across empty squares. It only moves in a straight line, always to an occupied square. All six directions are allowed. The tile lying there is taken from the board and placed in front of the player. It is ideal if you can move on in the same turn and collect several tiles of one colour. If you have seven tiles of one colour, you win in any case. If that doesn't work, four tiles of four colours are enough. The starting line-up is not predetermined, each game is different. Caution! Not suitable for children under the age of three. Small parts can be swallowed. For 2 players aged 8 and over Duration 15 - 30 minutes Game board Solid beech, oiled, 20 x 20 cm, 49 wooden tiles in 7 colours 1 game piece
