Product Description

We're playing cookery - who's helping? This game transforms 1 to 4 children aged 2.5 and over into little chefs. Children love to imitate adults in role-playing games about cooking. Here, the small children's kitchen is combined with two children's game variants. What belongs in the tomato soup or in the pasta stew? The players look for and name the right ingredients, stir them in and serve the finished dishes to the hungry family at the table. Bon appetit! With Wir spielen Kochen, young children can try their hand at cooking. Rice and peas or pasta? Anything goes in the pot! The children recognise and name the food and get to know different types of fruit and vegetables. When the ingredients are stirred in with a spoon, they disappear into the pot thanks to a clever turning mechanism. Fun is guaranteed with a matching game and a variant as a memory game. The game also includes eight figures and a small dining table as accessories, offering further opportunities for role play. We Play Cooking from the Playful First Learning series by Ravensburger contains materials that have been carefully selected and tested, and offers meaningful support for your child's development.
