Product Description

Every detail counts! In this special detective game, the players investigate using only pictures. The aim is to collect clues and find out exactly what happened. The hunting accident leads into the middle of a hunting party. Each of the three chapters begins with a death. But was it murder? Or just an accident? Is there any evidence or even a motive? A special kind of crime game where you should definitely believe your eyes! By Frederic Moyersoen, author of Saboteur.

How to play Unsolved - The Hunting Accident MBE3:

- The picture card deck is prepared for each chapter as follows:
- 30 basic court cards plus the 6 court cards of the chapter. After shuffling, the starting card of the chapter is placed on the face-down pile
- Everyone plays cooperatively together either as a group or against each other in teams
- Each round, as many picture cards are taken from the pile as people are playing and distributed to everyone
- Everyone looks at the cards they have received in turn and then passes them clockwise until everyone in the round has seen them
- Together they then try to reconstruct what happened
- During the game, up to 12 cards may be laid out face up for all to see until the end of the chapter. The remaining cards are put aside face down
- After all cards have been looked at, questions about the victim, the possible murder weapon, the possible perpetrator, the course of events and the motives have to be answered
- Together, the group tries to give as many correct answers as possible. If the game is played in teams, the group that has given the most correct answers is compared at the end
