Product Description

Game board set The Desert Kingdom A battle with several participants can be a confusing affair. To ensure that neither players nor the game master lose track, we provide you with game boards for battle scenes on which you can use your game markers or miniatures to represent the positions of the combatants in order to keep battles and other scenes clear. If two markers are close to each other on the game board, the corresponding combatants are within range for close combat. This set contains game boards for six different combat environments in the Desert Realm, both in the Caliphate of the Desert Realm, the Ferkina Mountains and Fertile Thalusia. Also included are two plans for sanctuaries of the mysterious threat in the desert, which can be cut out to create modular locations. CAUTION when unpacking! The game plans for the Threat of the Desert are a spoiler for the metaplot regional adventure Queen of Tears (and can optionally be used with it)! To use the game plans, we recommend the acrylic marker set - The Desert Realm and/or the acrylic marker set - Queen of Tears as well as the publications from the Tools of the Master series, which present rules for playing with markers.
