Product Description

A fight with several participants can be a confusing affair. So that neither player nor game master lose track of the situation, we offer you acrylic marker sets with which you can depict the positions of the combatants in order to keep conflicts and other scenes clear. If two markers are close together on a game board, the corresponding combatants are within range for close combat. This set contains a total of 36 acrylic markers featuring the creatures and most important master characters from the adventure anthology Horned Perils, which are suitable for depicting combat encounters, for example. To use this, we recommend the publications in the Tools of the Master series. Caution! Not suitable for children under 36 months.
