Product Description

A battle with several participants can be a confusing affair. To ensure that neither players nor the game master lose track, we offer acrylic marker sets that you can use to represent the positions of the combatants in order to keep conflicts and other scenes clear. If two markers are close to each other on a game board, the corresponding combatants are within range for close combat. This set contains a total of 33 acrylic markers with the creatures and most important master characters from the adventure anthology Shards of the Gods, which are suitable for depicting combat encounters, for example. We recommend the publications in the Tools of the Masterseries for using this set.
