Product Description

Divide up territories, draw borders and take possession of the squares. The game is played on a 7 x 7 board with 49 squares. At the start, there are only 2 pieces facing each other on the otherwise empty board. These pieces move in a direct line and may turn once at right angles. Once the target square has been reached, a piece is placed on an adjacent line. On each turn, the player can choose to move an existing piece and/or move a border or place a new piece. In Fendo, there is only ever one open area, in which there are several pieces and any number of border pieces, and separate closed areas, in which there is exactly one piece. The squares of the closed areas are counted at the end. The new game from the Mensa award winner develops ingenious moves that can often turn a game that was thought to be safe. On the nomination list for the MinD Games Award 2018 (category: short playing time) Caution! Not suitable for children under the age of three. Small parts can be swallowed. Features:- Author: Dieter Stein- Number of players: 2- Age: 10 years and up- Duration: 30 - 45 minutes- Game board: solid beech, oiled, 25 x 25 cm- Wooden game pieces, varnished
