Product Description

The SR-71 Blackbird is an American reconnaissance aircraft that served in the United States Air Force from the 1960s to the 1990s. It was designed by Lockheed Martin and was one of the fastest aeroplanes in the world. Its maximum speed exceeded Mach 3 (over 3,700 km/h) and its operational altitude of up to 26 km made it difficult for missile defence systems to shoot down. The SR-71 had an advanced titanium design that allowed it to withstand the extreme temperatures generated during supersonic flight. It was mainly used for intelligence gathering and its ability to evade enemy missiles was a legendary advantage. Use 1,374 high-quality elements to build the legendary SR-71 aircraft in 1:48 scale. This aircraft appears for the first time in COBI's range. The set has been carefully designed so that its construction will be a pleasure for the discerning builder. Removable landing gear, movable ailerons and a hinged cockpit with space for figures are the basic aviation features you will discover during construction. The model is covered with durable decals representing US Air Force markings. The set includes a figure of a USAF pilot in a distinctive uniform reminiscent of astronaut suits! The entire set is complemented by a display base made of clamp bricks with a sign with the name of the set and the Lockheed Martin logo. Thanks to the intuitive building instructions, assembly is easy and poses no problems even for less advanced builders. The set will fulfil the expectations of aviation, military and terminal block fans. The SR-71 Blackbird will look great for an adult collector as well as in a teenager's room.
